The indoor-outdoor living experience is seamless, allowing you to fully embrace and enjoy the beauty of the natural surroundings.

An aerial photograph of a golf course with vibrant green fairways and numerous sand traps. The landscape is dotted with tall, slender trees, and the overall design appears rugged and naturalistic. The word "Karoo" is written in a large, white, cursive script in the upper right corner.

Karoo

A dynamic 18-hole layout designed by Kyle Franz, Karoo features rugged aesthetics with wide fairways, multiple routes to pins, and bold green contours. Varied tee boxes give players a fresh look at the course's features each time they play. Thoughtfully planned, Karoo rewards creative short-grass recovery shots around the greens. Golfers will encounter Sandhill Cranes throughout their round on this 7,201-yard design—these elegant birds are known to dance and sing, and their call is a loud trumpeting sound that is often described as a rolling karoo.

An aerial photograph of the Roost golf course during the "golden hour" of sunset. The landscape is a mix of rolling green meadows, sandy areas, and clusters of trees. Long, dark shadows are cast across the grass, and the sky has a warm, orange glow. A small body of water is visible on the left side of the frame. In the far distance, a row of white houses with dark roofs is visible. The word "Roost" is written in a white, elegant script font in the upper right corner.

Roost

Roost is an 18-hole course that capitalizes on different environments—routing through the sandy, scrubby areas adjacent to Karoo, rolling meadows that are sprinkled with flowering dogwoods and native wildflowers, and even a 40-foot-deep sinkhole. Continuing Cabot CEO Ben Cowan-Dewar’s fascination of great collaborations, the principals of Roost include Kyle Franz, Ran Morrisett serving as Golf Course Architecture Advisor, Rod Whitman, and Mike Nuzzo.

The Squeeze

The Squeeze offers 9 holes that range from 100 yards to 550 yards, and architect Mike Nuzzo drew inspiration from the world's best short par 4s to create a course that is full of fun and drama. The shape of the second green was inspired by the old-fashioned corrugated metal tin roofing used in miniature golf, the par-3 third hole has a memorably huge waste area, the fifth hole is designed with a winding fairway that ends with an undulating green, and so on. Playing over varied terrain, each hole at The Squeeze demands different strategies.

An aerial night photograph of a golf course. The landscape is dark, but the green fairways and tees are brightly lit by numerous spotlights, creating a high-contrast scene. The lights are scattered across the course, highlighting specific areas and casting long shadows. The trees are silhouetted against the dark background, and some are also illuminated. The overall effect is a dramatic and visually striking view of the golf course at night.

The Wedge

Architect Mike Nuzzo did not stop making big features at The Squeeze—some of the most interesting features were saved for The Wedge. The 11-hole par-3 course offers huge waste areas, greens with dramatic slopes, and lots of varied lies. Golfers will encounter some of Cabot Citrus Farms' most interesting design features at The Wedge, and lights located throughout the course means the party doesn't stop at dusk.
